It's About Our Skin, But
It's Also About Our Lives

The World Skin Health Coalition is a patient-led multi-stakeholder group of patient organizations, health care professional societies, industry companies and research organizations. Together, we're embarking on a mission that's about our skin and so much more. Our goal? To raise global awareness about the profound impact of skin diseases, and to urge health policy leaders worldwide to prioritize these critical issues.

But we can't do it without you. Help us reach policymakers by signing our open letter.

By signing our open letter, you're advocating for a future where skin health is given its due importance – where every individual dealing with a skin condition or disease receives the care, respect, and attention they deserve.
