I went to one of these thinking it was a free clinic with my first. I didn't plan to terminate. They convinced me I was ectopic during an ultrasound with a really old looking machine , I was terrified, then lectured me for over an hour about gods will. My son's father was with me. They cornered him and asked him to not pressure me to terminate.I went to a hospital right after my baby was fine. He's 11 now, I still think about it sometimes.

Genuinely don't understand how half of these things are legal in the US, it's like those veneer techs with two weeks experience and gain from people thinking they're healthcare professionals

they're essentially legal solely on first amendment grounds. no, I'm not kidding. apparently the courts believe false advertising & medical disinformation is protected speech

Abortion has risks. Like sneezing with your mouth closed has risks. Carrying a baby to term and giving birth has 1million x the risks. 🤔

A had a man tell me that pregnancy had more health benefits to the woman than it did health risks.... 🤔

That is predatory????!!!! They're looking for vulnerable women to manipulate them into carrying a child they don't want??? That is DISGUSTING!!! Whyyyy have I never heard of this before 🤔

We had one come to my hs and give us the talk. Made us watch 16 and pregnant, look at different fetus sizes, and told people that adopted children are more likely to have bad childhoods

So weird that I never see any crisis pregnancy center ads now that abortion is banned in our state. It's almost like.... they didn't care about the pregnancy - only preventing the abortion my, now husband, went to a CPC for a Std test before we got together and they prayed with him for "his soul" before they would give him his test results. we will never support places like this

Many of them intentionally delay appointments so the pregnancy will be too late to abort.

47m Reply

 xLiviix
Some will lie too about how far along somebody is, tell them they're earlier than they actually are so they go further than the legal threshold and can't abort anymore 🤔 and the attitude they give you is crazy. like do ya job

And they will typically offer ultrasounds earlier than obgyns will offer them too, which I think is predatory bc they know women could come to them before a medical doctor

This type of places should be illegal bc if they don't have actual medical professionals they shouldn't be giving any of their medical advice sigh 🌸

they just introduced a law to put these in every state! 🤔 i hate it here

Their job is medically care for you, let you know what this will be like and most importantly, make sure you are certain. Not to give you reasons or ideas not to do it.

i h@t3 these type of people who tries to gaslight you and they took decisions for your own body. When i was a child, because we didn't know how heavy the words were, our wors curs3 was "you are a failed ab0rt10n", and I'm afraid that this will become a reality

Love how Greys Anatomy provides some real-life scenarios that people go through and the true emotions that come with it!! Very well done episode

I also love this! People complain that it's "too political" but like these are every day scenarios and I love seeing it on tv.

They showed this kind of thing on the L Word when Kit got pregnant. It's so scary that there are so many places that do this 🙄

Also seen an episode of Law & Order SVU with the same type of clinic. They kept lying to a girl sending her away until it was too late to have the abortion .

I have read somewhere that nearly all of the medical storylines are based off true stories that have happened. Obviously they've been Hollywoodized but still cool to know!

The podcast Oh No Ross and Carry have a really good episode where they go undercover to one of these clinics.

I'll always remember that SVU episode where they delayed that teen getting an abortion until she was past the cut off. These people are evil

They showcased this in handmaids tale as well. They also showed how someone less knowledgeable can fall for their lies Remember, AbortionFinder.org will NEVER include crisis pregnancy centers (AKA fake clinics) in our verified database.

Thank you to @shondaland for bringing these kinds of stories to life 🙌🏽 TalkingIsPower juuliyuh Abortionfinder.org was how I was able to find a clinic in my area. It made me feel less overwhelmed and safer during a stressful time. Love your database & website so much.

the_enchanted.pencil THIS IS EXACTLY HOW I WAS TREATED. I went to a "pregnancy centre" for a TEST!!! They locked me in a room while some lady read me a preachy flier like i was some sort of toddler. I wanted a TEST.

katty_so_chatty I am a clinic escort with PP and one of the clinics I volunteer at has a CPC next door, which is our primary reason for being there as it's set far enough back off the street that the harassers can't really get to patients (except for trying to block traffic in and out of the strip mall). It's wild how aggressive they are in trying to snatch patients on the way in, and in my experience most patients don't have any idea what they are. Thank you for this anti-CPC education!

I never knew about this.

What worries me now is, with all these restrictions in place, how do we know that these fake clinics won't release your information to the government if you go there? Since they're not technically licensed staff, would they still have to follow HIPAA laws? Would HIPAA even be relevant in cases like this?

The fear mongering is insane too

Even if you demand an abortion at these places, they can't actually give one. So, even if a pregnant person came in with a life threatening problem which required an abortion to save their life, they couldn't help because they have NO ability to help. They have sonogram machines and a nurse to run them. THATS IT. Even if you want the pregnancy, they can't provide medical care for you.

I thought of this episode as soon as I read the new bill about women's "life affirming health care". These will likely be the centers that bill wants in place of real/unbiased clinics.
